The conflict of laws

by Briggs, Adrian, - c2024. - Copies: 1 of 1 available

 Clarendon law - ncs

The book examines and analyses private international law - the conflict of jurisdictions, the conflict of judgments, and the conflict of laws, in the aftermath of Brexit. Where retained EU laws are to be assimilated into the structure of the subject, the problems to which this may give rise are dealt with and solutions proposed. The theoretic underpinning of the subject is exposed, for without an understanding of what the conflict of laws does, and why it does it, the detail of the law can appear overwhelming, when the truth is opposite: almost every decision and principle can be seen to be part of a rational, coherent, structure. Where criticism - whether of legislation or the absence of legislation, or of judicial decisions - is called for, it is made. Punches are not pulled. Where the law has been let down by legislators or judges (not only in London) the shortcomings are explained, the better to help the reader appreciate what the subject, taken as a whole, seeks to do. Where reform is necessary, the need is explained. But above all, the reading is intended to be fun, or at least provocative. For as soon as the reader is stimulated to produce his or her own thought, reaction, and assessment, the book will have achieved its most important purpose.

Blackstone's guide to the Human Rights Act 1998

by Wadham, John, - c2024. - Copies: 1 of 1 available

This edition analyses the impact of Convention rights in landmark judgements from areas such as constitutional law, discrimination law and criminal law. It explains how the UK courts are exercising their interpretative obligation to read legislation compatibly with Convention rights. This new edition of Blackstone's Handbook of Youths in the Criminal Courts reflects major developments in the law and practice relating to youths in the criminal justice system. It has been thoroughly updated to take account of the raft of changes since the previous edition in 2018. The book covers the entire range of issues specific to the treatment of young people in criminal courts. These include the principles and practice of the youth justice system; the issues of jurisdiction, effective participation, and fair trial; the use of special measures; and the complications of sentencing procedure and practice. The book also updates all references to the Criminal Practice Directions to take account of the new 2023 CPD and includes all relevant developments brought about by changes in legislation such as the Sentencing Act 2020, the Judicial Review and Courts Act 2022, and the new, youth-specific sentence and new allocation exception introduced by the Counter-Terrorism and Sentencing Act 2021

Call Numbers: KW71 CHA 2024

European Union law : text and materials

by Chalmers, Damian, - c2024. - Copies: 1 of 1 available

This new edition sets out an account of EU law that includes not only that law's established features, but captures its development in recent years and the challenges facing the European Union. With dedicated new chapters on climate change, data protection, free movement of capital, and the EU's relations with other European States, topics such as the Union's response to covid-19 and the Ukraine crisis are addressed in detail. As with previous editions, the new edition integrates case law, legislation, academic materials and wider policy contributions in a way that broadens students' understanding of the law and prompts greater critical reflection on the limits, challenges, and possibilities of EU law. It seeks to set out EU law not so much as a series of laws to be learned but as something that stimulates heavy debate about some of the most contentious and significant issues of our time.
